Background of the Seminar

Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel with his indomitable spirit and relentless efforts made it possible to find geographical unity of India and integrate hundreds of remarkably diverse states to form the modern nation-state of India. His negotiating skills, precision, firmness, and administrative efficiency facilitated to achieve this remarkable feat. Equally, he stands out as the first major leader of the independence movement who came from a rural background and whose leadership in the various satyagraha and nonviolent civil disobedience movements were remarkable. Sardar Patel not only tried the territorial integration but also the integration of different communities by developing a sense of national identity among the people of India. Sardar Patel left a lasting legacy by integrating pieces of an immensely complicated jigsaw into a cohesive whole that is the India as we know it today. He is indeed the epitome of national unity.

Even after seventy five years of his departure, Sardar Patel's pioneering vision, administrative and selfless efforts for unifying India is needed now even more than ever before. He took a holistic view of human life and wanted all aspects of life - social, economic, and political- to be dovetailed for the creation of a just society. Sardar Patel's humanism and its practical application are the way forward in a world that echoes various challenges of the present time. Hence, his statesmanship and the vision of modern India in the contemporary world are very much relevant today.

There is something unique in this soil,
which despite many obstacles has always remained the abode of great souls ...

Manpower without unity is not a strength
unless it is harmonized and united properly,
then it becomes a spiritual power ...

The main task before India today is to consolidate herself into a well-knit and united power ...

One is the war we wage against injustice, and the other we fight our own weaknesses."
